Our Own Thanks-giving Celebration

Dear Little Readers--

The Breckenridge News wishes we could give to every one who wrote to the paper last week a book for each letter showed such a beautiful Thanksgiving spirit. As we promised to give the prize for the best letter, the judges have awarded it to Mary McGavock, Cloverport, Ky. Her letter was the best constructed. It was written with ink, worded well and was the neatest one received. Mary Owen Oelze wins second honor for excellent composition. The point that militated against her letter was its being written with a lead pencil. The prize is "The Little Colonel" by Annie Fellows Johnson. We will announce another contest next week and hope you will try your luck again.

Here's wishing you plenty of turkey and a pleasant Thanksgiving.

The Assistant Editor.

Prize Letter

Dear Breckenridge News:

I was most thankful this summer because I was living and well. I went to the country for work this summer and gathered wild flowers and berries, and hunted the eggs. We would go up to the mail box every evening to get the mail but would only get the weather forecast. I would go to the spring for my granddaddy which was much fun. One evening my uncle wanted some one to help him to plant beans so I helped him. When he had them planted he had to cover them up so I rode on the foot which was great fun.

One day a friend of mine and her uncle took me horse back riding. We went about five miles out on a country road to the Little Tar Springs. As we were coming home we stopped at the ice plant and got a watermelon and ate it then we started home. We got home about five o'clock in the evening. Lots of other funny things happened but these were the nicest. I am glad that I am here to write you this letter.

Your loving reader,
Mary. McGavock.

May Win Next Time.

Dear Editor:—I am a little girl nine years old. I go to school every day. My teachers name is Miss Ellen Bodine. She came home with me Wednesday night to see my little sister who is just recovering from the Malaria fever which I am most thankful for. My happiest day last year was one I spent at my Aunt's at Cloverport. Papa has been a subscriber to the Breckenridge News ever since I remember and Mama says she would not do without our News. hope I will be the most successful in your contest for I like to read good books.

Your little friend,
Katherine McGovern.

For Health, Life And School.

Dear Editor:—I am thankful for my home, mother, father and little sister and I am thankful that God has let me live until I am 10 years old and he will let me live until I am a grown lady.

But I am the thankfullest of my health and life.

And the thing that has made me the happiest in the past year is my school and school teacher.

Grace Panley.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 20, 1908.

Real Happiness.

Dear Editor:—The happiest thing that has passed this last year was that I was converted and became a Christian and that I gave golden things that they did not have.

And I had a happy visit out to the Country to my uncles. I staid two days.

Your loving little friend,
Helen D. Miller.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 1908.

Smart For Ten Years.

Dear Editor:—I was ten years old the fourth day of last May. I have now entered my fourth year of school life. We have a good school and my father is the President. I am very fond of all my teachers. I have six studies including music and I enjoy them all, especially my music. I have no little playmate in my home, but have two big brothers who play with me and my out-of-door playmate is a fine scotch collie shepherd dog his name is Bob. I wish you could see him. I also have some nice little playmates in the community. We have a Juvenile Missionary Society, we hold our meetings on the first and third Sundays in the month. I am the president and my mother is the lady manager. We children arrange our programs and think them quite interesting. About a week ago we entertained the members of the Sunday School Cradle Roll and their mothers. There were seventeen mothers and twenty-five children under five years of age. I have enjoyed a few short times this year but Gods presence has been more than anything else to me.

Most respectfully yours,
Mary A. Hughes.

At Grand-Ma's.

My Happiest time this year was going to grand-ma's it was three days till Thanksgiving.

Me and my brother Frank went to grand-ma's.

The evening before Thanksgiving grand father said I will go get the turkey for my dinner tomorrow. I was aming to go with him.

But I went before he did. I went up to the old turkey he did not move so I thought that I would catch him. But as soon as I touched him he gave a terrible gobble and started at me. I flew for the fence and I was not a bit too soon. As for grandpa he had to catch the turkey himself.

But I was thankful I had got to the fence in time.

If I had not the turkey would have had me for his dinner instead of me having him for my dinner.

From A Sweet Little Girl.

Dear Editor:—November 28th brings to us again our annual Thanksgiving day I am proud to know that we live in a nation whose chief executive recognized the God of heaven as the giver of every good and perfect gift; manifesting this by appointing a day that we may all express the gratitude of our hearts for another year of blessings. I am truly grateful for his goodness that has been given me and so many dear friends. Mother and father who are trying to guide my feet in paths of right usefulness.

For the church with his Heaven appointed instructions; teaching me to recognize the good, pure in all and in all things as coming from His boundless hand.

And again I am thankful for the beautiful bird, the turkey, that father carries every Thanksgiving, that we enjoy so very much with cranberries and celery. Wishing you a merry Thanksgiving.

I am,
Louise Fisher Lewis.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 18, 1908.

Thankful For Pleasures.

Dear Editor:—My mother, Mrs. McMullan subscribes for the Breckenridge News and I saw the little add in the paper to boys and girls under fifteen.

I am a girl fourteen years old. I am in the seventh grade. Mrs. Anderson is my teachers name. I like her fine.

I certainly do like for Thanksgiving to come because we always get out of school and have a good time.

This is my second Thanksgiving in Oklahoma. Last Thanksgiving we went a nice dinner to an old gentleman that was sick and he has been kind to us ever since.

I think we should all be thankful for the pleasures and comfort of life. He has given us and I think there is nothing nicer than to send someone that you know will not have a turkey and lots of nice things for their Thanksgiving dinner some of yours.

I expect you are acquainted with my mother's maiden name was Miss Ermine Sanford.

I certainly hope that I will have a chance to do a kind act for someone this year.

I remain Respect,
Frances McMullan.

A Visit The Happiest.

Dear Editor:—In the past year a visit made me happiest. It was a trip to grandpa's. We were all to go in a big wagon filled with sweet scented hay. We were going to start at midnight so that the drive could be in the cool night and early morning of the next day. It was late in the night when I woke. Mama and papa was already out of their beds and were out in the yard. I could hear them talking. Papa said it was cloudy and we would not go. I held my breath and waited. At last I heard mama calling the other children. I sprang out of bed and was dressing when mama came into my room for I knew we were going. In a little while we were all ready and the wagon was brought to the gate and we all got in. I shall never forget that ride under the cool, deep blue July sky with the stars twinkling and sending forth rays of silver light. We reached grandpa's at eight o'clock that morning and spent a few happy days then returned home safe and well.

Not A Licking Yet.

Dear Editor:—Thanksgiving is a day for us to give thanks for the blessings we have received and for the bad things that have not happened to us. I am thankful for good health, for good warm clothes to wear, for plenty to eat and a good warm place to sleep. I am thankful for all the good things I have. For the good school and Sunday school I attend and last of all I have not got a licking yet at school and that I am not a big fat turkey gobler.

Your friend,
Forrest Dryden Weatherholt.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 17, 1908.

Thanks Twice.

Dear Editor:—Having seen in the News that you wanted all of the boys and girls who read your paper to write you a Thanksgiving letter, I thought I would write.

I am a little girl thirteen years of age. My sister takes the News and we think we could not get along without it. I go to school and am in the fifth grade. My teacher is Miss Cora Matthews.

At first I thought I did not have much to be thankful for, but when I think of the golden harvest, the sweet fruit and life and health, I am truly thankful for all of these blessings. I am also thankful for the kind words and smiles of an affectionate and sympathetic mother.

Wishing you all a big fat turkey and a rich pumpkin pie for your Thanksgiving dinner.

I am your little friend and reader,
Nellie Heatty.

Got A Gold Pin.

Dear Editor:—I will write you what happened at my Thanksgiving in 1907 and Thanksgiving 1908.

Thanksgiving 1907 I had went to Sunday school just about three months and I have went a year and got a gold pin for not missing a day at Sunday school and after I got my pin I never quit like some of the other children and I haven't missed a Sunday since.

I went to the fair and saw a few of my friends then I saw some fine stock of all kinds and there was a cow which weighed twenty four hundred and fifty and I saw two racoons was a mule race and the other was a trotten race.

One man on a mule got throued but didn't hurt him. Ten I went to a show and seen where Harrie Throat shot Sanford White.

Affectionately yours,
J. E. Miller.

Loves His School.

Dear Editor:—I will write you a letter to tell you about my school, the school house is on the top of a large hill and we can see the boats and trains passing from the windows. I love to go to school for I do love my teachers. They are so good and kind to me. I like to play with the other children. We have such a good time at recess playing ball and spinning tops and when the snow is on the ground play snow ball and coast down the hill. I am in the second grade. At school I study my lessons so I will not have to stay in at recess and miss getting to play. I love to go to school. I am sorry when Saturday comes. Hoping you will visit again soon. I am your little friend.

Interesting Letter.

Dear Editor:—I wish to join your contest in writing Thanksgiving letters. And also wish to win one of your great prizes which you offer to the little ones.

Thanksgiving is a great day and was set apart by the Pilgrims. A number of Pilgrims emigrated to Holland. They were very religious and desired to worship God according to dictates of their own consciences. They did not feel at home in Holland. They longed for a country which they might call their own and determined to sail for the new world.

One hundred and two of them embarked on the Mayflower and came to this new world and made their settlement. There was a little brook that ran by their settlement and the birds would come and drink and sing to them every day and it made them so happy.

Well I will make my letter short as I can't think of any more.

I remain your little friend,
Virgil Oliver Bowlds.

To Auntie In Phila

Dear Aunt Bennie:—Another Thanksgiving Day is almost here and yet it seems a very little while since one year ago, when I wrote that last Thanksgiving letter to you.

Aunt Bennie I wish you were here to spend Thanksgiving with us. We are thankful with us, eat turkey, cranberries, celery pumpkin pies and all those good things a Thanksgiving dinner brings.

I have so many things to be thankful for too. I have been sick but I think I will be well enough to go to school in a few days.

I shall be very thankful for that, for I love my teacher, my school and my little playmates very much.

Aunt Bennie I am sure Thanksgiving Day is just the same in Philadelphia as it is in Cloverport, even though it is very far away, but I believe you could have just as good a time here and be just as thankful, and if you would only come I would be even more thankful than I am.

Write to me soon and try to tell me you will come to see us.

Very much love from your little girl,
Agnes Mattingly.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION CALENDAR.

"In Grandmother's Garden" is the title of the beautiful picture painted by Charles C. Curran for The Youth's Companion panel (Calendar for 1909). It is printed on the finest finished stock by the most recent methods of lithography. All the strength and beauty of the original painting are faithfully shown by employing thirteen separate colors. This is the largest Calendar that The Companion has ever issued. The picture is measuring 8 inches in width and 24 inches in length. Below the picture are arranged the twelve months. Great care has been taken to make the date figures legible, and to insure a practical and useful, as well as an artistic, Calendar. The Calendar is given to all those who pay their subscriptions to The Companion for 1909.

RURAL ROADMAKING.

How Some Farmers Built a Good Highway Cheaply.

STONES FROM FIELDS USED.

Nothing Paid For Material—No Large Profit For a Contractor—Only Cost of the Road Was the Cost of Home Labor.

One fact people are slow to learn is that the soil nature made for growing plants in does not make a good roadbed. Soil is decomposed or pulverized rock with some humus or vegetable matter. When this is wet it is mud; when very dry it is dust.

When the soil is used for a road the most of the time it is either one of these two conditions, but there are short periods when there is just the amount of moisture in the soil that makes it so compact as to be a firm road. For many years rural roadmaking has been some process of getting more soil into the road, and the more I can remember how under the supervision of the "path master" we used to work out the road by drawing soil from the road with a team and scraper and afterward throwing the stones from the road into the ditch. The next year, after the soil had been drawn out by the same soil was scraped into the center of the road again and the same stones thrown out. The last few years this has been done cheaply and easily with the road scraper. This plan of roadmaking may give a fairly good country road, where heavy loads are seldom driven, for two or three months in the year there is no firm, smooth road, but mud, ruts and dust, says W. H. Jenkins of Sidney Center, N. Y., in Home's Country Roads for the same reason that we need better school houses and rural schools we need better country roads. Instituting stone or macadamized roads in agricultural localities is a most wise and far-reaching policy, for it hastens the time of better agriculture and civilization and the time of better roads.

Man always finds nature has anticipated his needs and is only waiting for him to work up to a point where he can make his own road. The road must learn to make his roads from the rock before the glacier has ground them into soil, not afterward. For many years in many sections the agricultural lands have not been able to get rid of the stones on their fields or what use to make of outcropping ledges of rock that could be quarried. Now the modern machinery for making macadamized roads and the need of them and learning the uses of concrete will make these among their most valuable assets on the farm. As I am able to see it, the building of state roads by state funds does not best solve the problem of good roads for the farmer, but by the farmers co-operating with the state.

The labor and effort are needed. The cost of the better road is less cost. In many sections farmers are complaining about poor state roads. In one road district in New York two miles of macadam road were built at a cost of $13,000 per mile. One half of this amount was subscribed by the people living in the road district, and the state paid the other half. This road was built under the supervision of the town road commissioner, and the steam road crusher and other machinery owned by the town were used. No large profit was paid to a contractor. Nothing was paid for material. The only cost of the road was the cost of labor. I would call attention to the fact that the process of scientific road building as it was done in this instance is the reverse of that so long practiced by farmers. The soil is first removed down to the bedrock or gravel, and when the grading is done the understratum of the roadbed is made of gravel, and the stones are one or two feet thick. Next quarry stone or refuse from the quarry is broken to make a layer several inches thick, then a layer of gravel, and so on, until crushed stone from the stone crusher and rolled with the steam roller.

I drove over this two years from the time it was built, and can say it was in better condition than some state roads I have seen built at the same time. I have taken pains to talk with people living on this road and find them entirely satisfied with their investment and planning to build more of this road. I think on one mile of this road four farmers live on the average. The road cost them $500 per mile, or about $100 each. The interest on the investment is less than $10, and I think all can see that no farmer can make a better investment. Here they have a road bed that will last for many years, and the yearly road tax will keep it in repair. Farms have been cleaned of stone in providing material, and was provided for home labor, a road has been made in the right way, according to the principles of good road building. CARNEGIE WOULD CUT TARIFF

Claims 'Infant Industries' No Longer Need Protection.

Says Steel and Oil Duties Should Be Abolished, and Urges Tariff for Revenue and an Increase in Taxes on Important Articles Consumed by the Rich.

Andrew Carnegie, who built up the steel trust and amassed a huge fortune under protective tariff, claims that there is no longer any need of protecting our one-time "infant industries" which have now grown to lusty maturity; that duties on manufactured articles ought to be greatly reduced, protective duties of steel and oil together abolished and "duties for revenue" increased on imported luxuries consumed by the rich.

These amazing statements from a man supposed to be a "died-in-the-wool" protectionist, Mr. Carnegie makes in his article, "My Experience with and Views Upon the Tariff," which will appear in the December issue of the Century Magazine, to be published November 25, in which, after sketching the development of American protection and relating inside stories of tariff legislation in Congress, he arrays the facts and arguments which convince him that the day of tariff for protection in America is gone, and that, in general, such duties should be greatly decreased, abolished in many cases, and duties increased on important luxuries.

In spite of this radical stand-point Mr. Carnegie maintains he is still as much as a protectionist (where protection is really needed) as he ever was and that he has not changed one iota since he has formed a clear and definite view in regard to protection. He further states that President McKinley was of "our school of protectionists," "strong for protection where needed," "but equally strong in abolishing unnecessary duties." Pointing out that the McKinley bill, generally considered highly protective, really reduced duties on steel rails, beams, structural shapes, nails, forgings, etc., Mr. Carnegie goes on to narrate the part he himself played in making out lists reducing iron and steel duties in connection with the Wilson and other tariff reform bills, and shows how two distinguished Democratic leaders, Senators Gorman and Gov. Flower, helped to defeat the "revolutionary features" of the Wilson bill and yet obtained a thorough and judicious reform, reducing duties on iron and steel one-third.

Regarding the present status of the steel industry, the master of Skibo castle says, "The writer has co-operated in making the several reductions as steel manufacturers became able to bear reduction. Today they need no protection, unless perhaps in some new specialties unknown to the writer, because steel is now produced cheaper here than anywhere else notwithstanding the higher wages paid per man. Not a ton of steel is produced in the world at as small an outlay for labor as in our own country," and from his experience as a steel maker, he arrays facts and conditions that explain the paradox of "high wages" and "lower cost for labor."

He is as positive on oil as on steel, and concludes his apparently enthusiastic discussion of the protective and retaliatory oil duty with the statement, "The oil producers, like the steel producers, of our country need no protection from the products of other lands." "My Experience with, and Views Upon the Tariff" most earnestly champions tariff for revenue and from Mr. Carnegie's statements and indorsement of this we quote:

"In conclusion, tariff for protection, which was the issue forty years ago, should now give place to a tariff for revenue, and therefore the strict maintenance of the present duties upon foreign luxuries, paid by the rich * * *

"In the writer's opinion, the revision of the tariff could to-day safely and advantageously be made a radical one upon the lines suggested, but if Congress, in deference to the timid manufacturer 'whom we always have with us,' thinks it prudent not to disturb his dreams unduly and only halves the present duties upon some articles and abolishes them entirely upon others, always provided it guards zealously the present duties on luxuries of the rich for revenues, the writer will be thankful and philosophical as usual, because one step in right direction will have been taken, and he knows the final step must be before long—the sooner the better."

Characteristically enough, Mr. Carnegie closes his article with a laurel wreath for the "white bird of peace" which is more or less his exclusive property—"for nothing can keep the republic from speedily dwarfing all other nations industriously if she only continues to tread the paths of peace, following the truly American policy of the fathers."

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Cloverport Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretion. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure the troubles permanently. Here's Cloverport proof.

William Johnson, Cloverport, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills in my case proved to be a very reliable remedy and I have no hesitancy in recommending them. For six years my kidneys troubled me. The secretion was very frequent in action and when allowed to stand contained a sediment. I was forced to rise several times during the night and as a result, my rest was greatly disturbed. My back ached severely, particularly at night and in the morning I would be so lame and sore that I could scarcely get around. Whenever I contracted the slightest cold, it settled in my kidneys and made my suffering more intense. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Fisher's drug store have given me great relief from these troubles and I can give them my endorsement, knowing them to be a very reliable remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

STREPHENSON is not a dead town by any means, but one of the liveliest of its size in the State. There are more goods sold there and more money deposited in its bank of any other town of like size in the State. Judge Adair, cashier of the Two States Bank, says the business of his bank has been extremely satisfactory, more than he could have asked for, taking the state of the times into consideration. A visit to this good town will convince any one of the facts as stated.

The News takes great pleasure this week in publishing the Thanksgiving letters set forth on the front page. They appear just as they were written without corrections. The letters are indeed interesting and we urge you to read them. Note the originality, the spirituality and uniqueness of them. They also show that the simple things of life can make a child happy, not automobiles and gold rings and diamonds are essential to their happiness. God bless them, and may their little hearts grow and gain with joyfulness and thanksgiving.

At San Antonio, Tex., Tuesday, where Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan stopped on their way to Mexico for a vacation, the defeated democratic candidate said to a group of friends that he hoped to never become necessary to run for office again, but that he would not attempt to decide that question until the time comes to act. In reply to the direct question whether he would run for the presidency again, he said he was not discouraged as to the future of the Democratic party. That party was already a great educational force, and he had no doubt that the voters would yet turn to it for the accomplishment of necessary reforms. Mr. Bryan blames Tammany for the New York slump.

OUR THANKS AND WISHES.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day! And the News is glad for never before in the existence of the paper have we had more for which to be thankful. Pulling through the panic victoriously, launching successfully the cash in advance subscription plan have meant a great deal to the News and among the many blessings, we are especially thankful for these two. But most of all do we give thanks for the keen interest that has sprung up in the Breckenridge News during the last year. We have never known our subscribers to watch for the paper with such eagerness as they do now from week to week.

May you all have the Thanksgiving spirit. There is not anything that adds more to one's happiness than to be thankful, to be able to appreciate the good things of life. And too, may you all have plenty turkey and cranberries and pumpkin pie, however, in our estimation these are the least that go to make up the happy November day—Thankfulness and gratefulness are the greatest; may your hearts and dishes be filled with them.

LIBERTY OF CONSCIENCE.

To discriminate against a thoroughly upright citizen because he belongs to some particular church, or because, like Abraham Lincoln, he has not avowed his allegiance to any church, is an outrage against that liberty of conscience which is one of the foundations of American liberty. You are entitled to know whether a man seeking your suffrages is a man of clean and upright life, honorable in all his dealings with his fellows, and fit by qualification and purpose to do well in the office for which he is a candidate; but you are not entitled to know matters which lie purely between himself and his Maker. If it is proper or legitimate to oppose a man for being a Unitarian, as was John Quincy Adams, for instance; as a Rev. Edward Everett Hale, at the present moment chaplain of the Senate, and an American of whose life all good Americans are proud—then it would be equally proper to support or oppose a man because of his views on justification by faith, or the method of administering the sacrament, or the Gospel of salvation by works. If you once enter upon such a career there is absolutely no limit at which you can legitimately stop.—From President Roosevelt's letter on Taft's religious faith.

A CORRECTION.

In printing a list of the indictments returned at the October court, the name of Leo Hinton appeared among the list as one who had been guilty of violating the Local Option Law. The News printed the indictments just as they appear on the records at Hardinsburg, but the clerk explained that it was an error made by some one, by putting Mr. Hinton's name on the indictment when it should have been against Jim Ray. Mr. Hinton is only a witness in the case, and he is not indicted for violating the Local Option Law. The News makes this correction for Mr. Hinton, as it was not our desire to put him in a false position before the public.

White-Haired Women.

The New York women are original in their fashion of dressing, particularly the older women. The whiter the hair of a New York woman, the more she runs to color in her clothing. One New York woman with white hair with golden lights in it wears light blue invariably summer and winter, dainty blues with blue and white hats. Another wears purple bonnets, violet bonnets, very pretty on her white hair, and gowns of delicate lavender. Some are not unbecomingly, either, these white-haired women. Many of them are beautiful. A white hair with blue wings, a white veil with little dots, a pink and white complexion—many of them have really wonderful combinations—and at a distance they have the look of dainty bits of Dresden. —New York Press.

REAL AMERICAN.

Fred Pierce, Of New Mexico, In Cloverport For Short Visit.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pierce had the pleasure of entertaining for a short while their brother, Mr. Fred Pierce, of Los Vegas, New Mexico. Mr. Pierce has been east on a business trip and had little time to spend with his relatives here and at Owensboro. In speaking of politics, Mr. Pierce said, "I am an American." He belongs to neither party nor man and is independent. He enjoys coming back to Kentucky and said he was always interested in the folks at home. It matters not how busy he is, he takes time to read the News every week.

Birthday Celebration.

Victoria, Ky., Nov. 17.—Special—Mr. John T. McGovern and wife entertained a few of their friends today at dinner—the occasion being the forty-eighth anniversary of Mr. McGovern's birth.

Notably among the guests present were Mr. Samuel Muffett, aged 70, Mrs. Bridget McGovern, 76, and Mrs. Nancy E. Pate, 81, who are old only in years. They enjoyed the day and participated largely to the happiness of others. Mr. Muffett being the leader of out-door sports which the fine day made possible. Among those present besides the above mentioned were Mr. and Mrs. William Shores, Mrs. Nina Mason, Mrs. Nannie Mason, Mrs. Nellie Mason, Miss Kate McGovern, Miss Nellie Bates, Lillie Bates, Lillie Shores, Squire T. M. Bates and wife, Master Jesse Bates, Wm. McGovern, Bill Jackson and Mike Friel.

The guests arrived early in the forenoon and all were pleasantly entertained by lively conversation and outdoor games which made time pass pleasantly until dinner was announced, when all assembled in the large dining room where the table was loaded with good things to eat. I shall not try to give a description of the dinner as I could not do it justice, but will say that it was first class and was heartily enjoyed by all present.

John M. Govern is a man whose heart is in the right place, and is never so happy as when he has a house full of friends to help him enjoy the good cheer which he abundantly provides.

Here is hoping that he may live to see the 17th of November many more times.

THE PARACHUTE.

Leonardo da Vinci Was the First One to Descend It.

Credible accounts exist of an English Benedictine monk, Oliver of Malmesbury, in the eleventh century having tried to fly by precipitating himself from the height of a tower with the assistance of wings attached to his arms and his feet. It is said that having gone along a little way, he fell and broke his legs. He attributed his accident to failure to provide his apparatus with a tail, which would have helped preserve his equilibrium and made him descend a gentler one.

In the sixteenth century Leonardo da Vinci first demonstrated that a bird, which is heavier than the air, sustains its flight by the use of air. By making the tail denser where it passes than where it does not pass. In order to fly it has to fix its point of support on the air. Its wings in the descending stroke exert a pressure from above down, the reaction of which from below up forces the center of gravity of its body to ascend at each instant to the height of which the bird wishes to maintain it. Some theories which have come down to us prove that Leonardo occupied himself, like Oliver of Malmesbury, with giving man the power to fly by the assistance of wings suitably fixed to the body.

We owe to Leonardo also the invention of the parachute, which he described in the following terms: "If a man had a pavilion each side of which was fifteen fathoms wide and twelve fathoms high, he might cut himself from any height whatever without fear of danger." It may be said, too, of Leonardo da Vinci that he was the first to suggest the idea of the screw propeller.

A SAUCY DUCHESS.

For Audacious Fight For Gay and His "Beggar's Opera."

When the "Beggar's Opera" by Gay, was produced in 1728 it took positively by storm. The king still clung to Handel, but the nobility, with the Duchess of Devonshire among them, fled to the theatre to see the "Newgate musical." The "Beggar's Opera" had a run of sixty-two nights, unprecedented in those days, and as one result of the success the Duchess of Queensberry took up Gay's cause and vehemently championed it.

Very busy was she in those days, dating about in her coach and giving guineas subscriptions for printing copies of the forbidden play. And so heedless was Kitty that she carried her list to the queen's theatre room. Queensberry took up Gay's cause and vehemently championed it.

Papua Island was so named by the Malays and by the word "Papua" in reference to the hair of the inhabitants. It is generally supposed that Papua or New Guinea was originally part of the mainland of Australia. It was discovered by the Portuguese in 1520, though it was probably sighted by A. Dalmeida during his voyage fifteen years earlier. The Australian government, realizing the danger that would arise if an enemy sealed land so near their coasts, frequently urged England to annex the eastern portion of the island, and after two or three unauthorized annexations a British protectorate was established there in 1884.

Clipping Their Wings. The costume of the Pu Yen Pen-Jen women in the Shan states is very striking, consisting of a cloth hood, an open jacket and a pair of short white trousers reaching barely to the knee. But the most important though the least noticeable part of their costume is their colored cloth garters. These women are obliged to wear, as without them it is believed they would be able to fly away, leaving their husbands and sweethearts sorrowful.

WHAT TAFT HAS SAID

Things That Show Intellect and Sound Judgment.

TERSE ECONOMIC TRUTHS.

Fallacies of Bryanism Exposed in a Few Sentences—His Position in Relation to the Trusts—Exact Justice the Highest Ideal of Government.

By WALTER J. BALLARD.

Here are some of the striking things Taft has said:

"The Democratic party today as organized is nothing but organized incapacity."—At Montpelier, Vt.

"Bryan would have the initiative and referendum because he distrusts representative government and has no confidence in the ability of the people to select conscientious representatives. He would take away from courts, because he distrusts the ability of judges to resist the unwholesome influences of the money power, the power to enforce their own orders."—At Columbus, O.

"Anything which makes capital idle or which reduces or destroys it necessarily reduces both wages and the opportunity to earn wages."—At Cooper Union, New York City.

"The course of the administration has only been directed against such organized capital as was violating the statutes of the United States and no other. The business men of our country as a whole are honest and their methods are sound."—At Boston, Mass.

"The so-called colonial policy of the United States has added to our trade already something over a hundred million dollars a year."—At Cleveland, O.

"The administration of exact justice by courts without fear or favor, unmoved by the influence of the wealthy or the threats of the demagogue, is the highest ideal that a government of the people can strive for, and any means by which a better, however unpopular, is poor, is deprived of enjoying this is to be condemned."—At Columbus, O.

"I believe that a navy is the greatest insurer of peace that we could possibly have—a navy commensurate with our resources, and commensurate with our coast line, and commensurate with the number of dependencies we have and commensurate with our population, and commensurate with our influence as a world power."—At Cleveland, O.

"If we manage control over a people for the benefit of that people and in the Philippines and with the purpose of developing their native culture and capacity and with the intention of giving them the right to become independent when they shall show they deserve it, the states that we as nationalists are utterly without foundation."—At Cleveland, O.

"The present business system of the country is not the greatest incentive to progress and any attempt to change it to a free trade basis will certainly lead to disaster."—At Columbus, O.

"The Democratic party has no policy which the country can depend upon. Its whole stock in trade is that of irresponsible criticism and obstruction, and when charged with the responsibility of doing anything it utterly fails."—At Greenboro, N. C.

"Mr. Bryan asks me what I would do with the trusts. I answer that I would restrain all unlawful trusts with all the efficiency of injunctive process and would punish with all the severity of criminal prosecution every attempt on the part of aggregated capital to suppress competition."—At Chattanooga, Tenn.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Linna's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

FINE ROADS ABROAD.

American Experts Point Out Superiority of Foreign Highways.

THREE THINGS TO REMEMBER

Selection of Routes, Proper Maintenance and Adaptation of Construction to Traffic are Essential, Say Delegates to International Road Congress.

Three of the American delegates to the first international road congress recently held in Paris, France, arrived in New York the other day. All from Seattle, Wash., they are Samuel Hill, president of the Washington Good Roads Association, H. H. Thompson, city engineer of Seattle, and Samuel C. Lancaster, professor of highway engineering, University of Washington. Secretary of the congress, they issued in a statement to the New York Herald regarding the results of the road congress.

Road builders from all parts of the world were present at the conference, twenty-nine countries being represented. There were twenty delegates from the United States.

A remarkable exhibition in connection with the road congress was a display of samples of road surfaces. The statement of the delegates raised by motor cars and the bad surfaces of roads so much in evidence, this exhibit was particularly interesting.

The statement of Messrs. Hill, Thompson and Lancaster is as follows:

"Personal observations made in France, Germany and Belgium, Holland and England have served to show in a striking manner the backwardness of our own country in almost every phase of road construction and maintenance."

"Wholly differing conditions render comparison difficult, yet a study of the roads of these countries, the high state of highway engineering everywhere, with the resultant beauty of the surrounding landscape, proves most interesting and instructive. They furnish a lesson which America could ill afford to ignore."

"The law of gravitation is universal. The question of gravitation applies alike to every road in every country. The traffic to be handled, differing as it does in quantity and character, demands a road over which it can be moved. To do this at a minimum of cost, considering the surface of the road and the means of conveyance, is the problem. The road must be differently adapted to meet varying conditions. In other words, the traffic must be suited to the road or the road to the traffic."

Experience and observation are the best teachers. In the opinion of those whose views are herein expressed the attention of the American public should be directed primarily to three things in road construction, namely:

"First—The selection of the route should be made with reference to gradient, alignment, character of soil, drainage and general adaptability for road purposes."

Second—In construction the character of the traffic to be borne, the accessibility and cost of material should be carefully studied. The best suited road surface differs in character from that best adapted to motor vehicles and wherever possible different kinds of traffic on the same route. In America, where for years to come earth roads will form a large proportion of our highways, much full expense may be saved by planning these ways in that when a portion of the road is metalled an earth road may still be laid at one side, thus relieving the metal surface of considerable traffic during certain seasons of the year."

Third—"Too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of the proper maintenance of our highways. No road is ever really good until it is opened for traffic and maintained without ceasing throughout its entire life."

"Two of the best specimens of roads seen were in England. In the vicinity of Nottingham we passed over more than a hundred miles over roads built by E. Parnell Hoxley which were as nearly perfect as it seems possible to make them. In the environs of London we rode for an equal distance over roads which were well built, the surface of which had been treated under the direction of Sir Herbert Preston. These roads carried heavy traffic, including automobiles and traction engines, yet they were perfectly smooth and free from dust. They exemplified in a surprising degree the effect of careful construction and constant maintenance, where a stitch in time saves nine" as opposed to the haphazard way of some of the leading thoroughfares of our own country as well as around the French capital.

"The first international road congress was productive of great good; the second international congress, which will be held in Brussels two years hence, promises greater things."

Danger in Dust.

Nine horses that were employed on gravel road construction in Hamilton county, Ind., died from the effects of breathing dust.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pain, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or uneasy heart beats and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through the arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail for free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Klinger & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake! Remember that Swamp-Root is sold by all druggists, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., is on every bottle.

WM. NEWTON FATALLY CRUSHED

Well Known Young Railroad Man Victim of Horrible Accident in Louisville Last Tuesday.

Former Breckenridge Boy

The funeral of Wm. Newton who was fatally crushed between two box cars in the L. & N. yards, was held in Louisville last Thursday afternoon. The services were conducted from the St. Louis Baptist Church and the interment took place in the St. Louis cemetery. Mr. Newton lived only a few hours following the terrible injuries he received. He was a splendid young man, just in the prime of life, being in his twenty-seventh year. He leaves a wife and two small children, one a little baby. Mr. Newton had been a brakeman on the Henderson route for eight years and was a member of the St. Rose Catholic Church. His family were devoted to him and he also had many close friends who were shocked at the sad news of his sudden death.

Those who attended the funeral from here besides his two sisters, Mrs. Clara Bohler and Mrs. Sanford Gentry, were Mrs. Wm. Hoffmans, Mrs. Tony Nichols and Edward Morrison.

IS IT THE RACE VS. ALCOHOL?

STRONG WORDS OF DR. PETERSON AS TO ALCOHOLS' EFFECTS.

If Alcohol's a Food It's a Poisoned Food—Are They Paid or Perverse, Even When College Professors? Address to Charles Conference.

From The New York Sun:

ELMYRA, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Dr. Frederick Peterson, of New York city, whose authority on diseases affecting the nervous system is widely recognized, delivered an important address here this evening before the ninth New York State Conference of Charities and Correction on the topic "The Influence of Alcohol Upon the Public Health." Dr. Peterson, who is professor of psychiatry at Columbia University, said that the most important modern campaign of education was to teach the people in regard to the abuse of alcohol. His larger idea carried the instruction beyond the well being of the individual and had to do with the development and improvement of the race.

Dr. Peterson in his category of the users of alcohol made a distinction which will sharpen some eyes when he differentiated the moderate drinker from the temperate drinker. He also said things to cause the people to sit up and take notice in speaking of the men, college professors or others, who publicly advocate alcohol as a food. Of these he said his hearers might be sure "it is the voice of some one perversely interested."

He went further and said that they might question whether such a man was not simply seeking self-exploitation, or "might not even be subsidized by the vast commercial interests at stake."

For himself Dr. Peterson said that if alcohol was a food it was a poisoned food. Harking to Maeterlinck's reflection that if the world would give up meat and alcohol there would be no more hungry folk Dr. Peterson said that if the $938,000,000 invested in the food industry can supply the greater part of this nation's food the $534,000,000 invested in the industry of poisonous drinks might well feed all the hungry, and leave a pretty sum over.

Mr. Peterson's address in part was as follows:

The mysterious power which has let mankind through all these ages from the protozoan up to man, through combat and struggle with the elements, with the natural enemies, with disease, seems always to give us at the proper moment, when it is most needed, the means of rescue, the power of triumph. So in these later years when physical structure has been safeguarded and more or less perfected, and there is need of speedier spiritual growth and development, that same power sows in a million minds the seeds from which spring freedom, social reform, moral uplifting, greater knowledge of the uses of the matter and forces all about us, and warnings of whatever may endanger the progress of the human race. Thus it must be that practically at the same moment all over the world, in Great Britain, Scandinavia, Germany, France, Italy, the United States, there has arisen a wave of feeling against the misuse of alcohol.

Insanity and epilepsy are among the diseases that taint our progeny. Alcohol is the chief poison that has this baneful power. As an example of what one individual may do I might cite the oft quoted Jukes family in the State of New York. One hard drinker was the originator of this family which over a generation ago, when Dugdale wrote his book, had become already 1,200 in number. In his summary of the study of the Jukes family of degenerates the author says:

WHAT ONE FAMILY OF ALCOHOLICS COST.

"Over a million and a quarter of dollars of loss in seventy-five years, caused by a single family, 1,200 strong, without reckoning the cash paid for whiskey, or taking into account the entailment of pauperism and crime of the survivors in succeeding generations, and the incurable disease of idiocy insanity growing out of this debauchery, and reaching further than we can calculate."

This is one family. In the State of New York there are now some 10,000 insane in the public and private hospitals, and it is estimated that 20 per cent. of these, or 6,000 patients, owe their insanity to alcohol. In all the asylums of the United States are 150,000 insane, and assuming the same percentage here are 30,000 individuals in this country in whom alcohol has brought about insanity. Dr. MacDonald calculates that one insane person is an approximate loss to the State of $400 per year. Hence the actual loss in money to the State of New York through alcohol insanity is 2,400,000 and to the United States $13,000,000 every year.

Alcohol is often a direct cause of epilepsy, but more often epilepsy is due to alcoholism in parents. Thus Bourneville, in a study of over 2,500 idiots, epileptics and imbeciles admitted to the Bicetre Hospital found that over 41 per cent. of them had drunken parents. In the report for the Craiz Colony for Epileptics it was found that over 22 per cent. of 980 cases of epilepsy had alcoholic parents.

THE MENACE TO THE HUMAN STOCK.

What I want to point out is that the asylums for the insane, the institutions for epileptics, idiots and feeble minded, the prisons and the county poorhouses are representative, as far as their alcoholic population is concerned, of the extremes of alcoholic indulgence and debauchery. Here alcohol has done its worst to the living individual. Below this topmost wave of ruin and desolation are innumerable gradations of alcoholism down to the moderate drinkers and the temperate or occasional drinkers.

The race is reasonably safe from further contamination by those victims of alcohol who are locked away in the retreats that our charitable world provides for them. It is otherwise with the vast number of excessive drinkers, who are free to work any havoc in the organism about us, and who are direct and indirect feelers of the institutions named. It is not a single Jukes family that society has ranged itself against, but against the legions of Jukes families that menace the human stock.

Physicians may differ among themselves on minor points, such as to whether alcohol has any nutritive value, whether it should ever be used as a stimulant in sickness, whether moderate drinking is always harmless, but the medical profession is at one in its stand against the abuse of alcohol, which leads to the wrecking of the home and race degeneracy. They all agree that alcohol is a poison taken in any form—beer, wine, hard cider, rum, whiskey, bitters or patent medicines. There is no question as to its being poison. The retort that the active principles of tea and coffee are also poisons is no argument in favor of alcohol, for while taken in excess tea and coffee do induce certain mild nervous disorders, these are insignificant when compared with the unparalleled destructiveness of drink.

The discussion as to whether alcohol is ever a food is equally idle and evasive of the main issue. It is not a food like bread and butter, for it has venom in it. As Prof. Abel of Johns Hopkins University says: "It is an easily oxidizable drug with numerous untoward effects, which inevitably appear when a certain minimum dose is exceeded."

ALCOHOL CLASSED AS A DRUG.

I have italicized the word drug because it is as a drug that alcohol is now regarded by most physicians. It is placed among the narcotics and anesthetics.

I should like here to present a very brief summary of what scientific investigators have recently determined to be the action of this drug:

It is no longer considered to be a stimulant, but rather a depressant.

It perverts digestion.

It depresses and weakens the heart action.

It decreases the capacity to do muscular work.

It diminishes the intellectual functions by dulling the creative faculty, impairing judgment, vitiating the correctness of perceptions and by generating timidity.

It brings about slow, far reaching anatomical changes, such as fatty degeneration of the heart, kidney disease, diseases of the blood vessels, changes in the muscular tissue and in the cells and fibres of the nervous system.

Its habitual use lessens the normal defences of the organism against infectious diseases, especially tuberculosis.

WHO ARE ALCOHOL'S DEFENDERS?

If you find here and there some dissenting voice, that of some university professor perhaps, you may be sure that it is not that of a person with medical experience or any one familiar with the material which all may read but rather the voice of some one perversely interested. You might well question whether such a one is simply seeking sensational exploitation of himself or whether he might not even be subsidized by the vast commercial interests at stake for you must remember that the annual consumption of alcoholic drinks in the United States is over a billion gallons.

I believe that human evolution has now reached the stage when the abolition of the use of alcohol as a beverage is expected and required. Abstinence is one of the principles of the human eugenics, that new science that is just being born.

There is no one here present who would feed alcohol to his dogs, horses, sheep or cattle. These possessions are too precious for that. He is too interested in improving their breed. He would recall Prof. Hodge's experiment with alcoholized dogs, in which among twenty-three pups born in four litters to one pair of alcoholized dogs nine were born dead, eight were deformed and only four apparently normal.

Our best method of eradicating the alcoholic evil is that of a campaign of education. Every man, woman and child should be made familiar in one way or another with what is known by the medical profession of the ravages of alcohol.

In Paris they put up a poster in every public hospital ward, and on every prescription blank of their hospitals and dispensaries they print the following:

"ALCOHOLISM: ITS DANGERS."

"Alcoholism is the chronic poisoning which results from the habitual use of alcohol, even if not used to the extent of producing drunkenness."

"It is an error to say that alcohol is necessary to laborers occupied with fatiguing work, that it gives heart for work or renews their strength; the artificial excitement produced by it rapidly gives place to nervous depression and weakness. In reality alcohol has no actual use for any one."

"The habit of drinking strong liquors leads rapidly to alcoholism; but the drinks called hygienic (in France) also contain alcohol, the difference being only in the dose. The man who drinks daily an immoderate quantity of wine, cider or beer becomes alcoholic also, as well as he who drinks the stronger liquors."

"The drinks labelled as aperitive (in France), such as absinthe,

Internal Catarrh.
Mrs. George C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes: "I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments. "I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for internal catarrh. "I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Peruna Tablets.
For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Peruna Prolonged Her Life.

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me. "So such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you have so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for anyone else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

vermouth and bitters, and the aromatic liquors are more pernicious because they contain an addition to alcohol essences which are themselves also violent poisons.

"The habit of drinking also leads to family disaffection, the forgetting of all social obligations, disgust with work, pauperism, theft and crime.

"This habit leads ultimately to the hospital, for alcoholism engenders the most various and destructive diseases—paralysis, insanity, disorders of the stomach and liver and dropsy. It is one of the most frequent causes of tuberculosis. Furthermore it complicates and aggravates acute diseases: typhoid fever, pneumonia, erysipelas when run benignly in a sober man, quickly kill the drinker.

"The faults of the parents fall upon their children. If these live beyond the first months they are menaced with idiocy, epilepsy or later fall victims to tuberculous meningitis or consumption.

"For the health of the individual, for the existence of the family, for the future of the country, alcoholism is one of the most terrible dangers."

HOW DR. PETERSON WARNS AGAINST ALCOHOL.

Even more brief, I have made them for use on my own prescription blanks, as follows:

"Alcohol is a poison.

"It is claimed by some that alcohol is a food. If so, it is a poisoned food.

"The daily regular use of alcohol, even in moderation, often leads to chronic alcoholism.

"One is poisoned less rapidly by the use of beer than by drinking wines, gin, whiskey and brandy.

"Alcoholism is one of the most common causes of insanity, epilepsy, paralysis, diseases of the liver and stomach, dropsy and tuberculosis.

"A father or mother who drinks poisons the children born to them,

My Sister Advised Me to Try Peruna.

I Took Your Treatment and My Appetite Returned Speedily. I Gained Strength and Flesh and Am in Perfect Health.

I Am So Thankful Your Medicine Has Done Me So Much Good.

—So Says Miss Julia Butler, Of Appleton, Wis.

Sick Headache.

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, N. F. D. 22, Westfield, N. Y., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now. "I would recommend Peruna and Manlin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Weak, No Appetite.

Mrs. Ruth B. Brent, Holmes, Ill., writes: "I was in poor health three years ago. I kept getting worse, and I finally was so weak that I could not sit up all day. My feet and hands were always cold. I had no appetite.

"I consulted one of the best doctors, who said I could not be cured. I was nervous, my heart would flutter, and I had a pain in my left side and also had chronic constipation.

"I got a bottle of Peruna and one of Manlin and wrote to you for advice. While under your treatment I gained three pounds a month.

"I took several more bottles of Peruna and now I am well. I am able to do all my housework—cooking, washing, ironing, baking and mending.

"Everybody compliments me on looking so much better than I used to, and now I have a girl baby six months old, as fat as she can be.

"She is what I call a Peruna baby, for I know it had not been for Peruna she would not be here."

For Suffering Women.

Mrs. Esther Lee, 322 Madison Street, Topeka, Kas., Secretary Triple Tie Social Club, writes: "Fourteen months ago I began to be troubled with internal catarrh, which left me pale, weak and nervous. I decided to give Peruna a trial.

"To my great relief I found that my general health improved. I kept growing stronger, and within three months I was in my usual normal condition. I cannot recommend Peruna too highly to suffering women."
